Looping Stuff Assignment 10

1. Create a program where the user inputs a positive integer. The program will add all of the positive integers together up to and including the user inputted number.
   - CS 120 Modify your above program to only add the odd or even integers between the starting and ending number (you will need to use the mod function)